Jonathon's Experience

Jonathon, an admitted Australian lawyer, has over seven years of experience, providing high-quality advice across all facets of the R&D tax program for businesses nationwide. He holds a Bachelor of Laws and Bachelor of Business from Griffith University, and a Graduate Diploma in Legal Practice. As an experienced Tax manager, Jonathon is proficient in technical and taxation issues related to the R&D Tax Incentive, including all aspects of preparing annual RDTI claims, Defence of AusIndustry/ATO Reviews and Audits, R&D Tax Governance and Implementation strategies, and preparing and negotiating advance and overseas findings.

His passion for innovation and technology drives his work, guiding his clients in uncovering their true business potential. Jonathon's industry-wide expertise accommodates a broad spectrum of businesses, ranging from multinational corporations and ASX100 companies to SMEs and startups. He serves an extensive selection of industries, including but not limited to advanced manufacturing, software development, food and beverage sciences, biotech, agriculture, and waste management.

Jonathon goes beyond the traditional advisory role, offering personalised advice that aligns with the unique R&DTI requirements of each client. His innovative approach supports organisations striving to confront the world's most significant economic and technological challenges. Focused on fostering a culture of growth and progress within each organisation he collaborates with, Jonathon truly becomes a partner in success, ensuring your innovative ideas and ventures reach their full potential.
